Statement by the Delegation of Thailand,
H.E. Mr. Thani Thongphakdi,
Ambassador and Permanent Representative,
17th Session of the Working Group on the UPR – Jordan
24 October 2013

Mr. President,

Thailand warmly welcomes the delegation of Jordan led by the Minister of State for Media Affairs and Communications to the UPR Working Group today and thanks them for their presentation.

Thailand commends Jordan for its continuous political reforms, particularly the amendments of the Constitution to establish the Constitutional Court and Independence Elections Commission, the introduction of national party list to its electoral system, and the open and transparent parliamentary election held in January this year. These have led to parliamentary democracy, as well as political and social stability in the country.

We are pleased to learn that Jordan has given importance to the promotion of women's rights and the strengthening of gender equality. The rise in the number of women in the House of Representatives is an important development in achieving the goal. In this connection, we recommend Jordan to continue to promote women's political participation and representation at national and local levels, including in the cabinet, political parties and judicial system.

We also welcome Jordan's tremendous efforts to address poverty and hunger, provide access to education for all, and improve children's and women's health, with a view to achieving the MDGs. We recommend Jordan to ensure increased access to health services and education for all, particularly for rural women.

Lastly, we wish Jordan much success in the second cycle of its UPR review process.

Thank you, Mr. President.
